

NAP Portfolio for CMPL

Information and overview

Potsdam / 26.02.2026

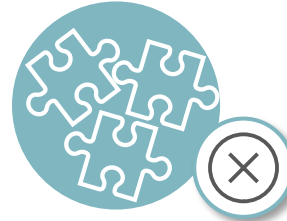

Three challenges complicate optimal negotiation outcomes

Learning by doing and established routines

Individual learning by doing
Leads to that there is no general knowledge of negotiation.

Little to no structure

Negotiation preparation is often unstructured because there is no uniform procedure.

No learning effect

Success factors and lessons learned for the organization can not be derived.

These problems often cause companies to struggle with improving their negotiation performance. Therefore, a systematic approach to negotiations is necessary.

The NAP method

The NAP has developed a methodology for preparing, conducting and monitoring negotiations that consists of empirically based tools and enables a scientifically proven improvement in negotiation results of up to 10%. A comprehensive set of application options is available for using the NAP methodology, such as tool cards, brochures or the “Negotiation Manager” (NEMA) software.

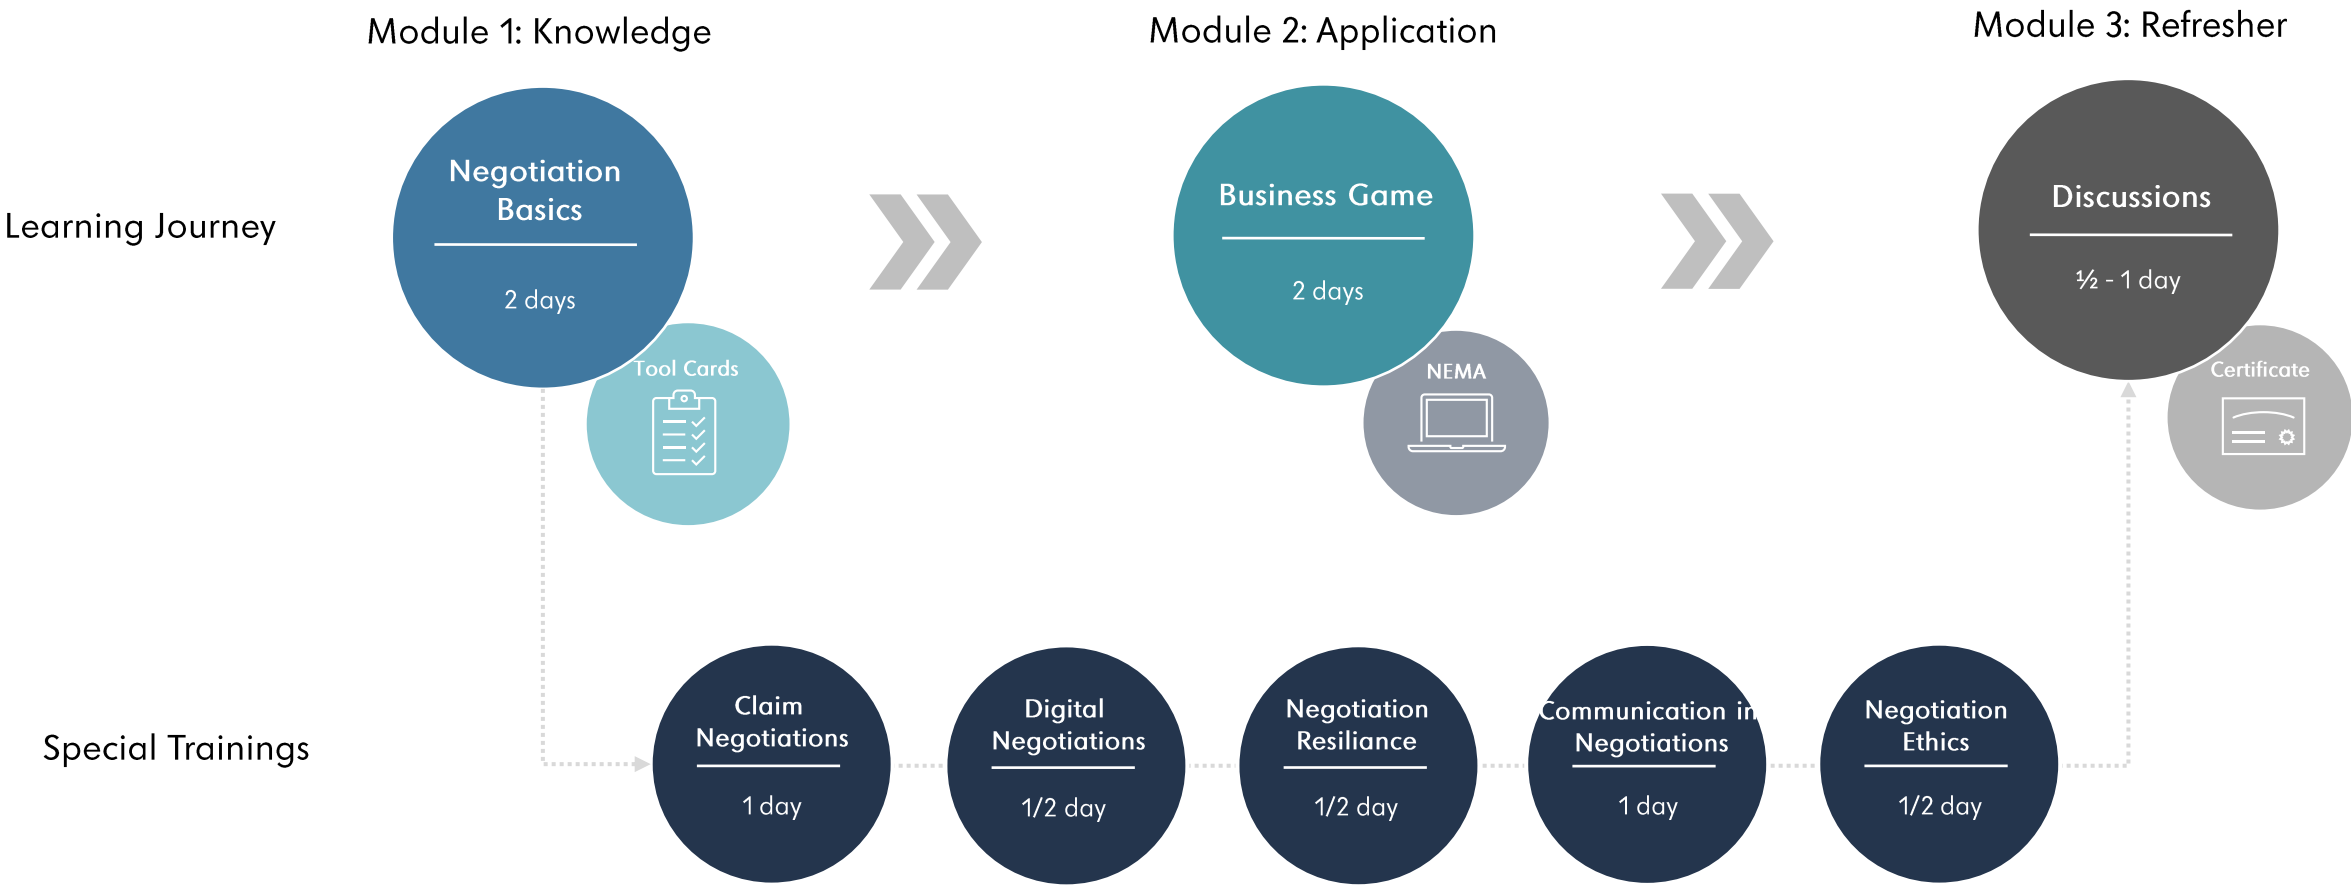

- » Holistic approach with consideration of all activities before, during and after negotiations
- » Combination of interdisciplinary research approaches and best practices (including behavioral science, game theory, economics)
- » Use of a tool system that builds on each other with concrete “how to” guidance
- » Scientifically proven increase in negotiation efficiency and effectiveness
- » Continuous expansion of the tool system based on the latest research findings

The portfolio of the NAP – every way we can support your negotiation performance increase.

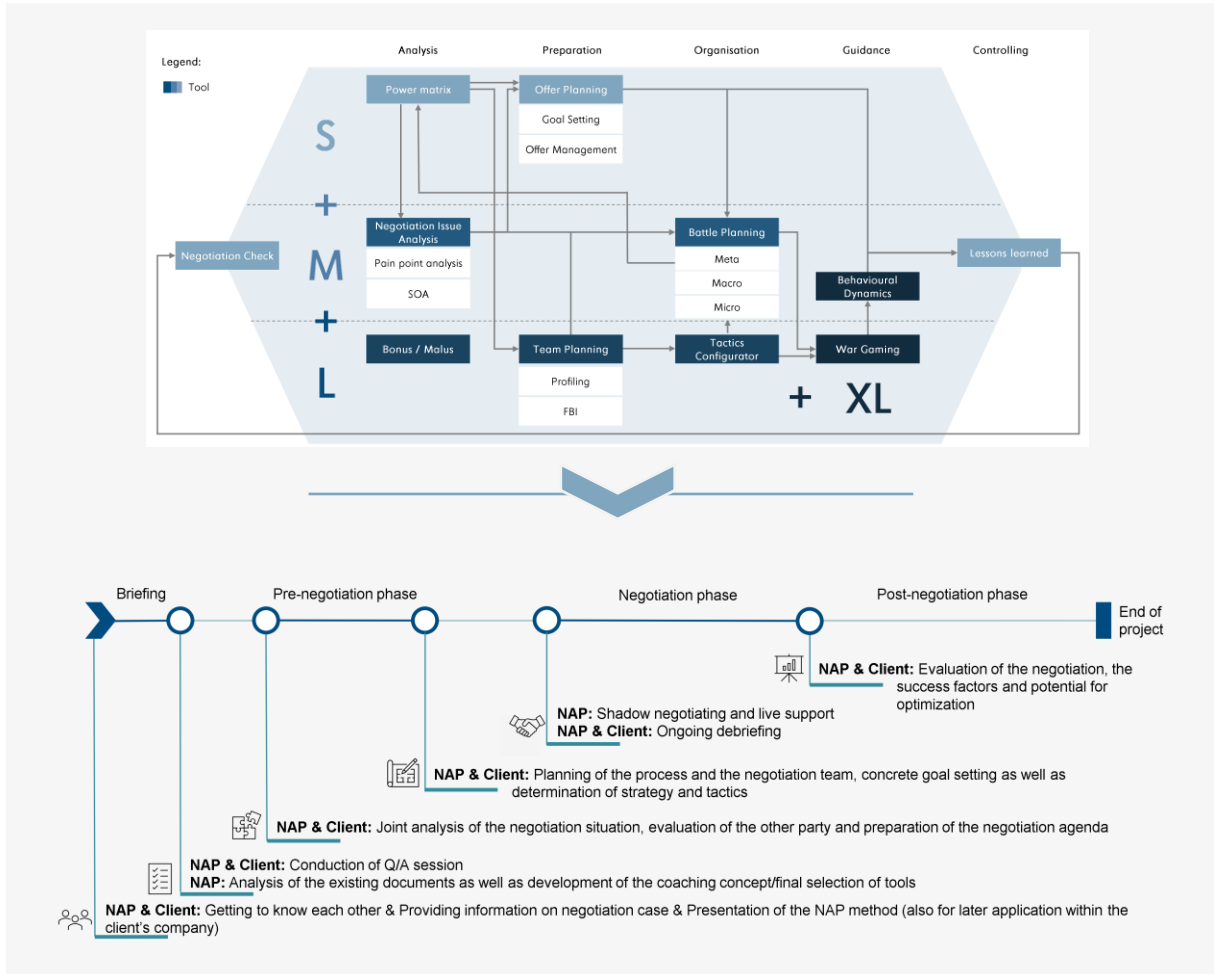

Our TRAINING offer to CMPL – your NAP Learning Journey could look like this.

→ General Recommendation: 10-14 Participants per training (no matter if learning journey or special training) to ensure optimal interaction, care and support.

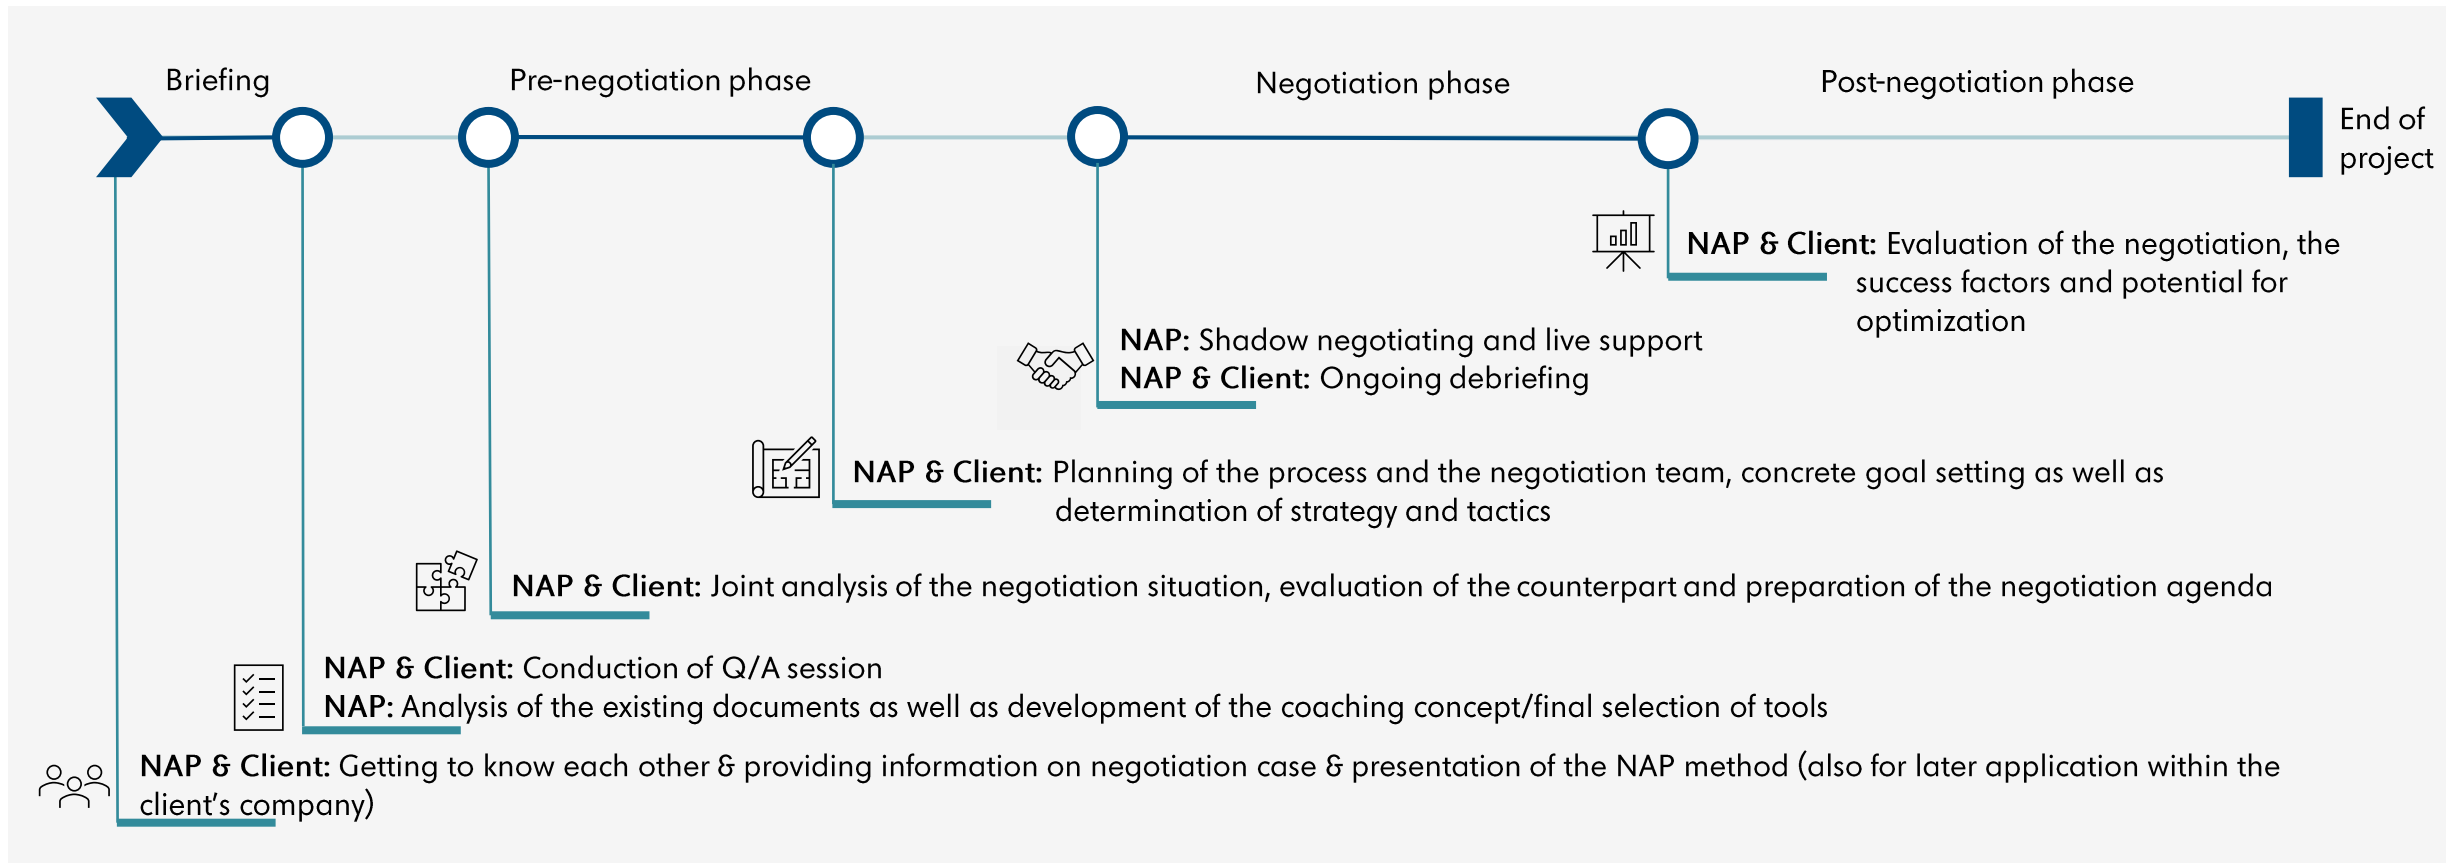

Every negotiation situation requires an individual strategy. This is how we would approach COACHING with you at CMPL.

- ✓ The coaching process is based on the NAP method and supports negotiators in complex negotiations from the first strategy meeting to the analysis of the results.
- ✓ Negotiators receive customised solutions for their negotiations in order to achieve optimal results. With experienced NAP coaches, they receive a sparring partner before, during and between rounds of negotiations, who provides them with optimal support in conducting negotiations.
- ✓ Client negotiation experts can accompany the coaching process if wanted/existent and use it as onboarding.
- ✓ After the coaching, the negotiators are even better able to apply the NAP method independently and to pass it on to their colleagues.

Overview of the NAP negotiation support process – step by step to joint success!

To achieve a client's negotiation goals, NAP provides negotiation support in three phases of the negotiation process (i.e., pre-negotiation, negotiation and post-negotiation).
